Holland Furnace Reports High Net Sales for 1950

An exceptionally strong wind-up in the closing months of the year enabled Holland Furnace Co. to report net sales of $36,376,898 for 1950, second largest sales volume in company history, and exceeded only by the year 1948.

Heavier taxes of all kinds decreased 1950 income which amounted to $3,176,875 or $3.53 per share as compared to $3,322,940 or $3.69 per share for 1949.

Federal income taxes for 1950 amounted to $2,287,233, and $668,206 was incurred for social security, state and local taxes. Total taxes of $2,955,439 equaled $3.28 per share. This compares with $2,618,318 or $2.91 per share in 1949.

Since 1948, the company has opened three new divisions, for a total of 12, and 170 new branch offices. Currently, 500 are in operation throughout the country, with many sub-branches. These 500 branches are actually 500 separate businesses, set up to do an expected gross business of $25,000 annually to $1,000,000-plus.

Company President P. T. Cheff said:

"Anyone who has ever had the problem of finding just one man capable of handling a sizable, complicated business can well realize the ever present and decidedly intriguing problem of this company. The matter of hiring, training, developing, and properly evaluating the capabilities; giving consideration to the stability, ingenuity, integrity, and courage of 500 such managers, and attempting to place them in the size business for which they seem best suited, is a brain twister from any viewpoint. Along with these are other factors, such as the type of territory, whether a big-town or small-town operation, as well as the number of personnel which the manager is going to be required to handle. While the best judgment of everyone in an executive capacity with this company is put to use on this problem, still there are, as can be readily seen, so many factors to be considered that a constant maneuvering of the personnel throughout the country ensues."

"While this problem is the one which consumes the most time and the best judgment of the entire management group, there are, of course, all the other usual problems that go with the operation of any business. They involve production, the acquiring of materials, engineering, the satisfaction of customers (which in this company involves around 12-500,000), and countless other run-of-mine matters."

"This year, all business seems to be in the middle of crises, curtailments, restrictions, orders, rulings, and controls. Just at this time, the current year gives every indication of being quite able to keep business men well occupied. It also gives indications of being a reasonably good year. None of the problems mentioned are new to this company's management group, which feels that it should be able to cope with them as they arise."

As a result, Niebuurt has been placed on the Democratic ticket to oppose Slaughter at the April 2 election.

Slaughter is chairman of the Ways and Means committee and a member of the health committee of the Board of Supervisors and at a district meeting was appointed key man of Ottawa county.

Not-at-Home Homer Hopes for Owner

Elmer Hassevoort doesn't quite know what to do with the not-at-home homing pigeon that flopped in his front yard about three days ago.

The bird, however, knows what to do. It has taken to the Hassevoort grain supply with wide-eyed eagerness, and doesn't appear in any hurry to leave.

Hassevoort asked the Sentinel to help him get rid of the little interloper. He said that if the little grain-eater's story got noised around, maybe the rightful owner would come and take him away. The bird sports a thin band on one ankle, bearing the letters UPF, followed by the number '49' turned sideways, and then ending up with K6896. His body plumage is white, while his head, tail and wings are smoke gray.

Hassevoort lives along route 2, North Holland.

No More Gray Ladies Training at Present

Following consultation with the Red Cross and military authorities at Percy Jones hospital, the local Red Cross chapter has decided not to train Gray Ladies for service at this hospital at the present time.

Volunteers from Battle Creek and Kalamazoo have been reactivated and there are many others who have offered their service from that area. Thus, it was decided it would not be economical or practical for volunteers to travel the distance so long as the need was being met in that area.

The Ottawa county corps of Gray Ladies will continue to serve at Veterans hospital at Fort Custer. In addition to recreational activities, they are now being asked to help in occupational therapy work of which they are interested. This includes oil painting, weaving, rick knitting, ceramics and leather work. Volunteers working with patients in this division will take additional training before following such work.

Temporary Route Through Holland Highly Unlikely

A temporary route through Holland to alleviate truckline traffic at Eighth St. and River Ave. is highly unlikely, Common Council learned Wednesday night.

Alderman John Van Eerden told council state highway officials of the Grand Rapids office indicated Wednesday afternoon that the best procedure would be to hurry construction of the new US-31 east of Holland.

To that end, Council instructed City Clerk Clarence Greengood to contact the state highway department favoring early construction of the continuation of US-31 on an emergency basis.

City Engineer Jacob Zuidema said an increase in the gas and weight tax might aid the state road financial picture, and said the department would probably have to decline Holland's request if no increase is passed. He said the state already is unable to match federal funds, and the latter sum already has rolled up to $10 million.

The city clerk also was instructed to write the building inspector for a report on the removal of wooden sheds on used car lots, built in violation of city ordinances. The investigation was ordered after council rejected a request from Ottawa Auto Sales to build a small office.

On inquiry of Alderman Lavern Rudolph on possible standby service for the Board of Public Works, Alderman A. W. Hertel reported that the local utility has been in contact with high officials of Consumers Power Co. at Jackson, and while nothing tangible can be reported, it appears that Consumers Power is more receptive than ever before to such an arrangement. He said the BPW previously had never had sufficient reserves to enter into reciprocal arrangement.

In response to another question on a full report of the BPW power failure last December, Hertel said the BPW was still awaiting a final report from Allis Chalmers and would report to council after it is received.

A letter from Holland Tulip Time Festival, Inc., requesting reservation of Riverview park for the week of May 14-19 and requesting information on liabilities of the organization for lights, moving bleachers and other work in connection with the Tulip Time program was referred to the street committee and the ways and means committee with power to act.

Alderman Rudolph, member of the Tulip Time commission, also asked council to improve the east end of the tannery lot for Tulip Time parking, and suggested improvements at the city dump, particularly for dumping facilities. He said considerable more paper is being deposited there since the coming of natural gas City Engineer Zuidema said there are some roadways in the dump but that more can be made.

Mayor Pro Tem John Belman presided in the absence of Mayor Harry Harrington who is on a combined business and pleasure trip in Florida. Alderman Robert Visscher also was absent, having been detained in Florida on account of his wife's health. The invocation was given by Alderman J. Van Eerden.

Plainwell Man Saws Way Out Of Allegan Jail

Allegan (Special) — A statewide search continued Wednesday for Fred Elzenheimer, 55-year-old Plainwell man who escaped from Allegan county jail Tuesday by sawing through the bars of a second floor window and dropped to the ground from a porch roof.

Sheriff Louis Johnson said all enforcement agencies have been alerted and felt Elzenheimer might not hold out long inasmuch as he was without money and was wearing very little clothing when he escaped.

Another prisoner, Walter Murphy, 51, who was sentenced to serve 10 to 15 years at Southern Michigan prison at Jackson on a breaking and entering charge Monday, also attempted to escape, but his freedom was short-lived and he was apprehended shortly after he left the jailhouse window and was trapped on the roof.

Elzenheimer was awaiting trial on a morals charge when he made his break for freedom. Charged with gross indecency, he appeared in municipal court a few days ago and was bound to circuit court. He was jailed after he was unable to raise $1,000 bond.

Murphy had confessed robberies in nearly 40 homes and business places in three counties in company with his son during the past year. He had been paroled from Southern Michigan prison at Jackson a year ago after serving 14 1/2 years of a 20 to 40-year term for armed robbery. The state parole board will determine how much more of this unserved time he will be required to serve.

Sheriff Johnson said he plans to take Murphy to Jackson Wednesday.

Holland city police were alerted by the escape alarm, and kept a slow roving patrol on the south side of the city during the night.

A Hope college sophomore, Guy Vander Jagt of Cadillac, brought another top speech honor to Hope Friday when he won first place in the Michigan Interscholastic Speech League's 54th annual men's oratory contest.

In winning the contest, staged by the MISL at Central college, Mt. Pleasant, Vander Jagt won the distinction of being the best orator, best debater and best extemporaneous speaker of state colleges in the league. He won the debate and extemporaneous speaking contests earlier this year.

His oration subject was "The Price of the Best" a plea for all-out effort for a "grand peace offensive." He was awarded a gold medal for first place and also the right to represent Michigan in the Interstate Oratorical association contests at Northwestern university April 26 and 27.

At the same time, Joyce Brunell, Holland senior at Hope, took second place honors in the MISL 44th annual women's oratory contest, also at Central college. Her oration was entitled "Let Not Thy Spirit Die."

Betty Hillstrom of Wayne university took first place in the women's division. H. William Ives of Kalamazoo college and John Katsoulos of Wayne university won second and third places and silver and bronze medals, respectively, in the men's division.

Allegan (Special) — Still at large.

That's the latest report on Alfred Elzenheimer, 55, of Plainwell, who sawed his way out of the Allegan county jail here Monday evening, and apparently made good his escape although carrying no money and dressed in light clothing.

Statewide broadcasts by the state police are being sent out on Elzenheimer, and all state police posts, sheriff's offices and police stations in this part of the Midwest have been warned to be on the lookout for him.

Checking of relatives and friends has turned up nothing, sheriff's officers said. Elzenheimer has been missing a total of 67 hours now.

A second prisoner, Walter Murphy, who attempted to escape with Elzenheimer but was caught on the jail roof, was taken to Jackson prison Wednesday.

Elzenheimer was being held on a morals charge.

Witness Jailed For Contempt In Sanity Hearing

Allegan (Special) — A sanity hearing for Henry J. Kuipers, 48, who lives on route 6, south of Holland, continued today after courtroom drama Wednesday afternoon resulted in having a distinguished witness put into jail for contempt of court.

Dr. Paul F. Voelker of Grand Rapids, former state superintendent of public instruction, was held in contempt after he failed to answer questions of Prosecutor Dwight Cheever and insisted on giving lengthy speeches on religion in spite of gavel pounding by the visiting probate judge, Philip H. Mitchell of Hastings.

The courtroom, more crowded than for the Powers murder trials last year, was completely demoralized by the proceedings and Judge Mitchell declared a recess, at the same time instructing Defense Attorney Perle L. Fouch to get his witness in line.

When the heavily bearded Dr. Voelker returned to the stand, he continued his courtroom eloquence and Judge Mitchell ordered him to jail. When the trial adjourned two hours later, the judge told the turnkey to release the witness.

Dr. Voelker had been listed as an expert witness on psychiatric aspects of the Kuipers case. He insisted on taking two oaths, one for psychiatrists and the regular oath.

Kuipers was brought into court on a petition by the sheriff. His demand for a jury trial on a sanity hearing is highly unusual, and the case attracted considerable attention. There was a possibility it would continue Friday.

Other testimony Wednesday centered about trouble Kuipers allegedly caused at Fairview school which his children attend. His wife returned to the stand this morning to testify anew about the troubles her children had with other children in the school. Two children, Henry, Jr., 16, and Udelius, 13, also testified. Fred Hamlin, a son-in-law, opined that Kuipers was "perfectly normal."

Dr. O. van der Velde, Holland physician, called today by the prosecution, was asked whether or not Kuipers is mentally ill. He answered, "It is my careful and studied opinion that from recent examination and from continued observation over a period of seven or eight years that he is mentally ill." He diagnosed the case as paranoid psychosis and said he did not believe Kuipers was homicidal at the present time "but we know that paranoid psychotics are liable to become homicidal."

Dr. C. Corkill, Douglas physician, admitted on cross examination that Kuipers was mentally ill but not dangerous.

Four Local Residents Hurt in Collision

Four Holland residents were injured in a three-car collision east of Zeeland Sunday night, but after brief examination at Zeeland hospital, all were released.

Damage to one car was estimated by police to be $600, while to the second, an estimated $350 damage was done. The third car was only slightly damaged.

The collision occurred on a straight stretch of M-21 about three miles east of Zeeland when a car driven by Cornelius Stam bumped the rear of a car driven by Egbert Grant, Hudsonville, and skittered into the path of the third car, going the opposite direction and driven by Henry Wierda of 127 West 16th St.

Crampton Plant Re-Tooling for Defense Work

Local Production Part Of $8 Million in U.S. Contracts With Firm

Crampton Manufacturing Co. in Holland is undergoing re-tooling to manufacture rockets for the armed forces and production is scheduled to begin within 30 days, H. E. Pleasant, company president, announced today.

The defense contracts are expected to increase the number of employees at least another 200. At present the plant employs about 300 persons, operating on two shifts. The double shift system is expected to continue.

The war work is part of $8 million in defense contracts placed with Crampton's, which operates plants in Grand Rapids, Holland and Douglas. The newest contract is a $6 million prime contract to make 4 1/2-inch rockets for the Army. Other contracts cover 5-inch rockets for the Navy.

It is expected the Holland plant will turn out 30 per cent of all war work contracted by the company. Work on re-arrangement of facilities and re-tooling has been in progress here the last four months. The plant is set up for producing machine parts for the 5-inch Navy rocket.

Grand Rapids Brass Co., which Crampton's took over in 1945, expects to boost its employee load of 400 to 900. Holland with 300 employees is expected to have 500 employees and Douglas with 100 employees expects to have 200.

Defense work at the Holland plant will be similar to that produced here during World War II, Pleasant said. In addition to defense work, the local plant will continue its normal production—hardware for the automotive, refrigerator and plumbing trades. Holland plant primarily was engaged in turning out die castings used in production in other Crampton plants.

The Crampton Co. was organized in Holland in 1937 and the present management with Pleasant as head took over in 1941. The Douglas plant was acquired in 1942 and the Grand Rapids plant in 1945. The Holland plant has 40,000 square feet of floor space; Grand Rapids, 120,000 square feet; and Douglas, 10,000 square feet.

About a year ago, Scott's, Inc., of Detroit established a plant in Holland and has been doing considerable finishing work for Crampton's.

Officers in addition to Pleasant who is president and general manager, are B. A. Britton, vice president and works manager; E. P. Schneider, secretary-treasurer; M. E. Davis, vice president; Ed Peltier is superintendent at the Holland plant. All live in Holland.

Civil Defense Chief Speaks to Kiwanians

Alfred E. Joldersma, chief of staff of Holland's Civil Defense organization, was guest speaker Monday night at the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis club at the Warm Friend Tavern.

Joldersma, who was introduced by George Schreier, told Kiwanians about preparations being made for the protection of civilian population in the event war comes to American shores.

"Under all present arrangements from the information we have today," Joldersma said, "we will not have any blackouts. They are useless with the modern radar equipment now available which is able to locate targets without blackouts."

Joldersma said plans are being worked out to formulate a block warden system with a chief warden for each ward. It will be the duty of each block warden to contact people within his block to see that they are properly instructed and trained.

Joldersma emphasized the need for volunteers to make the local setup workable.

Group singing was led by Jack Plewes accompanied by Franklin Van Ry. The invocation was given by Claus Bushouse.

Wilbur Cobb, club president, conducted the meeting and introduced M. S. Desser, Vineland, N. J. as guest.

Slippery Roads Cause Ottawa County Crashes

Grand Haven (Special) — Slippery roads Friday night caused two accidents in Ottawa county.

Cars driven by Vincent Remus, 17, Grand Rapids, and Cornelius Boersma, 49, route 1, Zeeland, collided on M-50 while Boersma was attempting to make a left turn. Remus, accompanied by a group of boys, were en route to Grand Haven but decided to return to Grand Rapids because of the blinding snowstorm. The crash occurred shortly before 9 p.m. Remus was given a ticket for having no operator's license on his person.

At 10:15 p.m. an oil tanker driven by William Tyrrell, 24, Grand Rapids, slid across slippery US-16 into the path of a car driven by Mrs. Connie Vander Wagen, route 1, Coopersville. No one was injured. The tanker was owned by Crystal Flash Co. of Grand Rapids.

A third accident occurred early Saturday morning when a vehicle driven by John Workman, 54, hit a parked car on Franklin St. belonging to Lyle White, route 1, Grand Haven.

Modern railway track lasts about 20 years before it must be replaced.

Farmers Union Explains Stand On Ban Proposal

Secretary-Treasurer Testified at Hearing Before Committees

Mrs. H. J. Kruidhof, secretary-treasurer of the Ottawa county Farmers' Union today released the full text of her testimony before the joint house and senate conservation committees on the proposed Sunday hunting ban in Ottawa county.

Mrs. Kruidhof testified before the committees at a public hearing in Lansing last Wednesday. Her statements follow:

"I represent the Ottawa county unit of Farmers Educational and Co-operative Union of America. We are the second oldest farm organization in America and will celebrate our 50th anniversary in the next year. We are a non-political and non-sectarian organization. Our county group consists of family-type farmers, living in the farming areas of the county. We have about 700 members.

The issue before this group tonight is whether we shall be given a referendum vote in Ottawa county to vote on a Sunday hunting ban. It might be easy to say just a yes or no on this but I want to call your attention to several circumstances that have led up to this request.

This Sunday hunting ban naturally is focused on the pheasant season, and we wish to trace their history and their connection to the farmer through the years.

First, we recall how they were planted in the state to provide hunting. With no natural enemies imported with them they multiplied quickly. The state, however, only furnished the pheasants but did not provide their food. Through the years the pheasants drew to the rich farming areas in our county and farmers have no alternative but to let them feed at will on whatever crop they choose. This has cost the farmers hundreds of thousands of dollars.

We of the Farmers' Union have struggled with this problem through the years. As far back as 1943 we saw the pheasant as a real menace to our crops. We began to see how we could correct it. We asked for bona fide farmers on the Conservation commission to protect our interests, but we were denied that representation. In 1945 we tried again with the same result.

We have appealed for an amendment to the Horton trespass law because we know it to be inadequate and unworkable. A farmer under the law must police his property. Since farming is his business he just does not have time to do such policing. So one cannot say the Horton trespass law covers the problem. Though the law does not require lands to be posted to avoid trespassers, there are many farmers who do post their land to remind hunters not to trespass. That is as often to protect crops, seedlings from being trampled as to keep out hunters.

This brings us up to the question as it concerns us now but with a background of struggle with a problem in which we have had to go alone. Formerly, all counties were alike—open to Sunday hunting. During the past years a large number of counties have been closed to Sunday hunting. The more counties that are closed the more hunters flock to counties which are not closed. That stands to reason.

Having Ottawa county open and others near by closed brings in many irresponsible hunters. We realize it is impossible for the conservation commission to screen their applicants for hunting licenses. This allows many irresponsible and undesirable hunters to come into our county—especially on Sunday. When such hunters enter a posted field we at once know they are law breakers and wonder what their next act will be. This is not so serious a problem with local hunters as they have more respect and they are known in the community.

Under these conditions the farmer must stay home to protect his property. When fences are cut and cattle can roam in fields or on roads there is loss and damage to the live stock as well as crops and fences. These are facts to which countless farmers will testify.

And when irresponsible people carry firearms and even shoot at people and livestock it is just too much for a farmer to handle alone. He needs official protection.

At our Jan. 9 county meeting with representatives from all our locals present, we decided to petition for a referendum to vote on a Sunday closing ban. The resolution passed by a unanimous vote. We sent a notice to our Board of Supervisors of our stand and we requested their action on the question also. They took action on the question on Jan. 10, passing it by a 2 to 1 vote. These supervisors are our representatives and we feel by this almost unanimous vote that they were truly upholding our stand because they too know the problem.

We are supporting the bill before us but would favor an amendment to allow the vote on Sunday closing to be by township. This would allow the citizens of each township whether chiefly agriculture or not to decide for themselves whether they want the township closed to Sunday hunting.

With a Sunday hunting ban it gives the farmer one day a week in which he is free to follow his inclinations, and in which he does not need to police his farm.

It surely is not asking too much in return for the care of the pheasants and the pleasure week-day hunters may enjoy."

Three-Year-Old Struck by Truck

Three-year-old Richard Hardy was hit by a coal truck while crossing the street at 11:14 a.m. Tuesday, and is "resting comfortably" at Holland hospital.

Hospital officials described his injuries as including a broken left upper leg, facial lacerations and head bruises. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Hardy, Lake Shore Dr.

According to police officers, Richard was crossing Van Raalte Ave. from west to east, a short distance from the 14th St. crosswalk, when struck by a loaded coal truck driven by Donald Vanden Bosch, 21, of route 2.

Vanden Bosch told police when he saw the child he applied his brakes but could not miss him completely. The truck, loaded with 5 1/2 tons of coal, was headed south on Van Raalte.

Richard almost was across the traffic lane in time to avoid the accident. The point of impact, officers said, apparently was on the left side of the truck.

Hardy runs a store on the corner where the mishap happened.

FLANK ATTACKS ON

CRIMINALS

When Bennett E. Meyers, former top purchasing agent for the army air force, was released from prison recently for one fraud he was instantly re-arrested for another. He had been sent to the penitentiary for inducing a business associate to lie to a senate investigating committee and had served three years when released.
The crime for which he faces his new trial the middle of April is that of evading $61,400 in income taxes while on Uncle Sam's payroll during the war.

The former major general, who lost his rank when he went to prison, serves as an illustration of the fact that often it is necessary to make flank attacks on criminals when they cannot be reached by frontal assault. The public became familiar with the flank attack technique in the case of the late Al Capone. Everybody knew, including the government, that Capone was guilty of crimes that were not even hinted at during his trial. He was convicted of the relatively mild crime of failing to pay enough income tax. But his stretch at Alcatraz was completely justified, even though the offense mentioned in his indictment did not seem to justify it.
Society attacked him from the flank because it could not get at him directly.

The same thing is true of former Major General Meyers. His real crime is not causing a business associate to lie, or even the evasion of income tax. His real crime is that he used the trust imposed on him by the American people for enriching himself. A major general swears a solemn oath that he will devote himself to the welfare and protection of his country. The American people take such an oath seriously. When an official, whether military or civil, repudiates that promise he does more than steal money. He steals public confidence, and that is a far more deadly crime than taking money.

Because of this fact former Major General Meyers richly deserved the prison sentence that was meted out to him. The American people are unable to bring him to justice and send him to the penitentiary for the crime of weakening their trust in all their elected or appointed officials.
Such a crime often does not lend itself to prosecution in a legal sense. But there are other ways in getting at such people, through flank attacks. That is what the American people are doing now in the case of Bennett F. Meyers.

Jesus Asserts His Authority
Mark 11:11, 15-19; 12:28-31
By Henry Geerlings
Not very much of Christ's total life was spent in and around Jerusalem. He was born and reared in the province of Galilee in the upper end of the land. His home was in Nazareth, and we have good reason to believe that He did not often get very far from home.
It would seem that His first visit to the city was at the time He was twelve years of age, and the occasion was the Feast of the Passover. We are reasonably sure that ever after that He not only attended the feast regularly, but also all of the other principal feasts, and there were quite a number of them.

But practically all of His visits to Jerusalem must have given Him an insight into what was going on in the Holy City religiously. His sensitive soul must often been outraged when He looked upon the indifference and the formality that accompanied the community of the services of worship in the temple. All through His ministry He protested against both public and private religious practice that had no heart in it.
As a consequence, what He was called upon to witness in the closing week or so of His life was a shock to Him. He knew that it was form and little more. And we could not expect those who were interested in that sort of service to be very much in sympathy with His ideas. They were diametrically opposed to His views and practices.

The triumphant entry must have been considered of unusual importance among the Jews, for all four of the evangelists give an account of it. To our Lord Himself it must have had attached to it deep significance, for in it He was offering Himself to the nation as its king. The details of it—the colts, the garments, and the incidents along the way—have their place, but apart from the inner meaning they stood for little.
Every step in the stirring procession caught the eye and helped to arouse keen enthusiasm.
As Jesus came up to the Eastern slope of the Mount of Olives, its temple and other public buildings, as well as its rows of houses and crowded streets, must have thrilled Him. Jerusalem had a long history. It had many good and great kings. It had been the center of the nation's worship for more than a thousand years. Its history had woven into it the handwriting of the purpose of God. Little wonder that He kept at He looked down upon it. Much of the story, connected with it was a perversion of the will of God, and now it was in the act of rejecting God's only Son. These people did not seem to have an idea what was good for them. Had they known, they would have repeated of their sins and sought that peace which God alone can give.

The judgement pronounced upon the city was the direct result of callous indifference of the rank and file of the people to God's prophets and His will. They had politely requested Christ to depart from the courts of the house in which they worshipped and to let them live in their self-satisfied ways. They did not seem to understand that the end of such a course is the judgement of the Lord. The last two syllables of the name of Jerusalem are Salem, which taken together mean peace, but there was no peace in store for the city, for peace is the gift of God and He had withdrawn His protection.

The courts of the temple were familiar to our Lord. He had worshipped there many times. He considered it a sacred place. But when He saw the people making of it a market place He realized how cheap it had become in their eyes. Carrying their wares into the courts that had been dedicated to the worship of the Almighty they were changing the sacred into the secular, the spiritual into the material. Their eagerness to drive a hard bargain cut Him to the quick.

He found it necessary to remind them of the sacrifice they were committing, and of the offense their behavior was to their God. To transform the house of God into a den of thieves was to forget the first principles of morality, to say nothing of religion.
It was apparent to the leaders of the Jews that they would have to do something to prevent Jesus from gaining the friendship and loyalty of the common people. The religious leaders of that day were still influential men. They realized their authority was at an end if His sway over them was not broken.
A group of the most powerful representatives of the nation came upon Him while He was teaching and demanded that He tell them where He got His authority. They understood that God had appointed them to guide the people into the truth. It was their purpose to embarrass Him and to discredit Him, and doing this, to turn the people against Him. The matter would have to be settled now or never. They were losing their hold on the multitude, and they would have to check the drift toward Him.

Instead of answering their question He asked them one, and in answering the question He put to them, they would be answering the one they put to Him. It is easy for the most part to ask a question. It is in answering the question that one may become entangled. It is apparent that they did not expect Him to bring John the Baptist into the picture, but there was good reason for His doing so.

Library Adventures

By Arnold Mulder

Young writers sometimes develop the illusion that getting drunk is proof of genius. They have read that Poe often drank to excess, that Christopher Marlowe engaged in tavern brawls, that Shakespeare himself was occasionally in his cups. Those writers, and some others, were great geniuses; they sometimes got drunk; hence all that is necessary is to get drunk to be a great writer.

That syllogism is of course completely fallacious. A poor writer may get drunk every day of his life; he remains just a poor writer. When a man of genius gets drunk or does other things that sap his physical and mental vitality, he remains a man of genius in spite of it, not because of it.

These generalizations are suggested by a new biography of F.
Scott Fitzgerald, a writer who in the twenties was a young man of very great promise in American fiction. He was possessed of very high talent, a talent that almost has a claim to the elusive term "genius." He died in the early forties, when he himself was only 44 years old, a sot, a physical and mental wreck, his life as a literary artist a tragic waste.

The new biography of Fitzgerald is called "The Far Side of Paradise," a paraphrase of the title of the novel that first made Fitzgerald famous, "This Side of Paradise," published in 1920. The author is Arthur Mizener.

Biographer Mizener pulls no punches. His biography is written in a spirit of obvious admiration for Fitzgerald's talent, not as a temperance tract. But he tells the full story of his subject's degeneration, from the days of his first dramatic success to the time when he died a gin-soaked wreck in Hollywood, where he had gone because he was compelled to engage in pot-boiling, to keep alive.
He died a bankrupt in terms of money, but that was not the worst kind of bankruptcy he suffered; he was also an artistic bankrupt. His biographer portrays the full picture of that fact.

Had Fitzgerald been merely a clever writer his drinking himself to death would not have been of any importance—except of course to himself. From the point of view of society the sooner the world is rid of that sort of trash the better as a rule. But when a man of talent, even of potential genius, does the same thing we are all the losers, because genius is extremely rare.

Unfortunately enormous success that came too easily and too early went to young Fitzgerald's head.
With "This Side of Paradise" and his highly popular short stories his income rose to the neighborhood of $35,000 a year while he was still in his early twenties. But very soon his outgo exceeded that figure. A further misfortune he suffered was that he married a southern girl who needed even more money than he did and who drank almost as recklessly. She broke down earlier than he did and degenerated into hopeless schizophrenia.

But long before this happened the pair had gone hopelessly in debt. They made desperate attempts to escape from themselves by migrating to Paris, but that of course was mere self-deception; their appetites took, Fitzgerald lost the power to do sustained work.
Through heart-breaking effort he produced one fine novel, "The Great Gatsby," and another that shows talent but also frustration, "Tender Is the Night." What he counted on as his greatest work, "The Last Tycoon," remained unfinished when his physical machine finally broke down.

The career of F. Scott Fitzgerald represents one of the tragedies of contemporary American literature.

Specialist Speaks

To Teachers Club

The Holland Teachers club held its regular monthly meeting in Junior high school Monday afternoon. The meeting was presided over by Lyman Sicard, president.
Miss Bernice Bishop introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Elsworth Tompkinson, from the Department of Education at Washington, D. C. Tompkinson, who is a specialist in charge of compiling data on the large high schools of the country, spoke on the "drop out" situation. He said the compulsory attendance law has been and is a social force in determining school population. In 1900, seven per cent of young people between the ages of 13 and 17 were in school, in 1910, 15 per cent. By 1930 about 51 per cent were enrolled, and it wasn't until 1950 that the percentage reach 75.

According to Tompkinson, there is good opinion but no actual evidence to prove that students are benefited by just staying in school.
There are three factors which make people quit school: Retention of information is unrelated to practice, the idea that education is good for a person whether it makes sense of not, unconcern of some teachers for making the subject alive and interesting.

Some boys and girls are squeezed out in grade schools because their personality needs are a sense of belonging, recognition of people and incident, and personal security. Tompkinson said. He emphasized the fact that teachers, through kind, sympathetic, friendly attitude, co-operation and good teaching can do a great deal toward satisfying these needs.

The next meeting of the club will be a social event on April 16.

Members were asked to attend
Grand Haven on Saturday, March 10, a dinner meeting honoring the NEA president, Miss Corma Mowrey, who will be the speaker.

4-H Club Work Attracts Many Non-Farm Youths

A. G. Kettunen
Cites Facts About
Club Membership

Although you normally think of 4-H club work for rural boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 21 years, Michigan's 1950 membership included 12,000 non-farm youths. A. G. Kettunen, state leader at Michigan State college, East Lansing, cites the fact that nearly 20 per cent of the membership was in youth not living on farms.

The program, which reaches more youth than any other organization, celebrates National 4-H Club Week, March 3 to 11. The week is being used by the members, leaders and friends of the organization to acquaint others with the program.

Kettunen points out that local clubs, aided by 7,000 local volunteer leaders, reached nearly 60,000 boys and girls in Michigan last year. Clubs are organized for young people who are interested in agriculture, homemaking and community activities and who want to "learn by doing."

County extension offices coordinate the program in each of the counties through county agricultural agents, 4-H club agents and home demonstration agents. The program is financed jointly by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Michigan State college and local county governments as a part of the co-operative extension program.

Clothing projects were the most popular among the more than twenty available to girl members. More than 19,000 girls took part in clothing work and entered their resulting accomplishments in local, county or state competition.

MSC Recommends Three Varieties of Barley

Michigan State college is recommending three varieties of barley in Michigan—Moore, Bay and Wisconsin 38. All three are white barleys.

The Moore has an advantage over Bay in that it has greater resistance to disease. It has considerable resistance to root rot, stem rust and mildew while Bay is quite susceptible to all three. Wisconsin 38 has weak straw and a tendency for the heads to break off when plants are ripe.

Certified seed of the three varieties may be secured.

Soil District Men Re-Elect Officers

Michigan's 65 state soil conservation districts apparently agree with the program of the Michigan association of soil conservation districts. At a recent meeting at Michigan State college, delegates re-elected all officers. They include: Herbert Van Aken, Eaton county, president; Ray Anderson, Manistee county, vice-president; and James Boyce, Allegan county, secretary-treasurer.

Special certificates of merit for aid to soil conservation work were awarded John Beardslee, Shiawassee county; K. K. Vining, former Kent county agricultural agent; and Morris Fonda, Detroit, president of the Soil Conservation Society of America.

Russell G. Hill, MSC extension soil conservationist, is executive secretary of the organization.

Date for Conference Of Greenskeepers Set

Annual conference for Michigan Greenkeepers has been set for March 15 and 16 at Michigan State college with an attendance of more than 100 expected.

James Tyson, MSC turf specialist, says that the meeting will be of interest to all persons concerned with the care and management of golf courses, cemeteries and of turf used for other purposes. Late information about soil, diseases, moisture, feeding and management, will be featured.

Registration is set for 9 a.m. Thursday, March 15 in the MSC union building. Staff members of Michigan State college will take part in the discussions and lecture periods.

Farmers Consider Factors of Forage

Farmers are now considering the problem of what forage crop to plant—red clover or alfalfa, remarks L. R. Arnold, county agricultural agent.

Several factors must be considered. One is supply. Red clover seed is abundant and fairly low in price, whereas northern grown alfalfa seed is scarce and relatively high in price. Length of rotation may decide on what kind to plant. If a short rotation, the farmer might well decide on red clover. If there is considerable difficulty in obtaining an alfalfa stand, red clover may be resorted to.

Alfalfa is more productive in terms of tonnage of high quality roughage both for hay and pasture. Due to the fact it can be held for two or three years, it has a great advantage.

Where livestock is an important enterprise, a productive field of alfalfa is a far more important crop of the two.

If good alfalfa seed from the northern or central areas cannot be secured then red clover is the better choice.

In securing a good alfalfa stand, liming of soil to bring it to the neutral point or very close to it and plenty of potash are the two most important factors. Alfalfa is a heavy feeder on potash in the soil. If this element becomes depleted alfalfa will not do well.

Pair Held After Car Parts Theft

Grand Haven (Special)—Sheriff's officers are holding Ralph Tucker, 32, Muskegon, and a 16-year-old juvenile in connection with theft of motor vehicle parts taken from Brolick Service station on US-31 just north of M-50.

The pair was arrested in Muskegon by Muskegon detectives and Undersheriff Harris Niemea after they found the missing articles in a junk yard in Muskegon. Brolick identified the pieces.

A motor, front end and axle, wheel drums and car springs were taken from outside the station late Friday night or early Saturday morning. An attempt was made to break into the station, but the pair apparently settled for taking what they found outside the building. It was reported Tucker is a federal parolee with only about a month to go on his parole.

Rise in Grass Silage

L. R. Arnold, county agricultural agent, reports a great increase among farmers of the county in the putting up of grass silage. Most farmers who tried this out in 1950 report good success.

Putting up of grass silage provides the farmer with a product which takes the place of pasture during the hot dry months of July, August and September when pasture may be short.

Many farmers substitute the grass silage for the usual corn silage for winter feeding.

Kool, Rosendahl Pace Calvin Win Over Hope Quint

Grand Rapids (Special)—Paced by two former Holland Christian stars, Calvin college won a 74-63 revenge victory over Hope college in the final game of the season for both schools at the Civic Auditorium Thursday night.

Rangy center Duane Rosendahl and former teammate Preston (Butts) Kool each poured 20 points through the hoop to submerge Hope chances for a double win over Calvin. In an earlier game at Holland, Hope won 75-70.

The Holland duo were ably abetted by pint-sized guard Stu Sisco, who whished eight of 13 shots through the hoop from near mid-court to fashion a 17-point total for the evening.

The game was hotly contested until midway in the final half when Calvin pulled away to a comfortable lead. At halftime, everything was even at 32-32.

It was in the second half that Kool got hot, scoring 16 of his 20 points. He was deadly under the basket all night, but during the final stanza hit on six of nine throws at the hoop. Rosendahl split his points evenly, with 10 in each half.

The story of the game might well be told in percentages of shots made during each half. In the first half, everything was even, with Hope hitting on 14 of 42 attempts and Calvin on 15 or 43 tries, for about one-third accuracy each.

But in the second half, Hope cooled off to a 25 per cent figure, hitting on 11 of 44 tries. Calvin, however, kept up the first half tempo with 38 per cent accuracy, hitting 17 of 46 tries from out-court.

The lead changed hands four times in the opening minutes of play before Hope pulled back into the game at 22-21 on the strength of six straight points by Bob Visser. The lead see-sawed back and forth for the next few minutes before buckets by Visser and Junior Bremer gave Hope a 30-28 lead with time running out. Roger Postmus hit on a long shot to tie the score and Rosendahl hooked one to put the Knights ahead 32-30. Bremer knotted the count with a bucket before the horn blew.

In the first half, Bremer's 10 points was high for Hope, with Ron Bos and Visser a step behind with eight each. Rosendahl and Kool paced Calvin with 10 markers each.

As the second half opened, the lead see-sawed once more with Ken Van Regenmorter and Bos leading the way to a 40-39 lead.

The margin mounted to 10 points a moment later, before Kool proceeded to put a clincher on the game, with six more fast points. Sisco and Mel De Stigter helped out to build up a convincing 63-45 lead. Hope fought back under the leadership of Van Regenmorter and Bud Vande Wege, but the margin proved too much to overcome.

During the second half, Van Regenmorter was high for Hope with 10 points, followed by Vande Wege with seven. Kool's 16 markers paced Calvin, followed by Vande Wege with seven. Kool's 16 markers paced Calvin, followed by Rosendahl's 10 and Sisco's seven. Besides being an offensive star, Kool turned the defensive trick of the evening by bottling high-scoring Jerry Jacobson to one field goal.

The game was the last in college competition for two Hope seniors, Vande Wege and Bill Hinga. Both saw considerable action during the evening. The loss put the Dutch season record at 12 losses against eight victories.

Allegan Sets Up Speakers' Bureau In Bond Election

Need for New Schools Will Be Aired Before Civic Organizations

Allegan (Special)—A speakers' bureau to inform Allegan residents about the $385,000 bond proposal to increase local school facilities has been organized to serve civic organizations, the Junior Chamber of Commerce announced today.

The Jaycees will provide speakers for club meetings to discuss existing school conditions and details of the proposed new construction. Kenneth Grinnell, chairman of the Jaycee construction committee, said interested groups should contact Orland Haugen or Richard Ackley to secure speakers.

The bond election will be held March 26 when two ballots will be offered. One authorizes the increase in millage rate of six mills, and the second, to be voted only by property owners, sets up the special bond.

Registration of voters who are not already qualified to vote will be at the city clerk's office or high school office before March 17. A special registration office at the City News stand will be available on the final day, school officials announced.

The new proposal provides 17 classrooms, including a general purpose room in each unit, to be spread among the three wards of the city. In addition, all the existing school properties will be kept in use.

Two options on sites have been taken by the school board in preparation for the election. The new site of a five room north ward school to supplement the present four-room structure, would be on the Marron farm on River street, a 13-acre plot. The west ward eight-room building would be on a nine-acre section west of Knapp street. This plan would take elementary pupils out of the crowded vocational building, and Dawson school rooms would also continue to be used. The south ward would receive three new classrooms and a general purpose room.

School officials said the $385,000, plus $100,000 already in a building fund, was expected to cover costs of construction, site purchases and equipment.

John Nienhuis, Mishap Victim, Dies in Zeeland

Brother Martin Still In Hospital; Condition Described as 'Good'

John Nienhuis, 19, of route 5, died in Zeeland hospital at Saturday of injuries sustained in a two-car accident south of Zeeland Wednesday morning. He died under an oxygen tent, never regaining consciousness after the accident.

Hospital officials said Nienhuis died of internal injuries and from a severe concussion. They said he had shown slight improvement the day after the accident, though doctors at that time continued to describe his condition as "very critical."

His brother, Martin Nienhuis, 45, of the same address, also was injured in the accident, but his condition was described by Zeeland hospital authorities Saturday as "good." He still is in the hospital, suffering from severe scalp and facial lacerations and from a fractured collar bone.

The other two men involved in the accident have both been released from the hospital, following treatment for bruises and minor injuries. Robert Hobeck, 21, of 1899 South Shore Drive, riding in the second car, was released the same day and Donald Lamoreaux, 28, of St. Ignace, was released on Saturday. Lamoreaux was driving the second car when the accident occurred.

The death of Nienhuis brings to five the number of auto fatalities in the Holland area in 1951. One pedestrian was killed in January, a cyclist in early February, and a woman teacher last Saturday, when her auto and an oil truck collided on US-31, and a motorist was killed on US-31.

Nienhuis would have been 20 years old on March 8. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Nienhuis of route 5. Surviving are his parents and six brothers and two sisters.

The brothers are George of Beaverdam, Henry of Grand Rapids, Martin, at home, and Albert, Benjamin and Harry, all of Holland. The two sisters are Mrs. Earl Nienhuis of Holland and Mrs. Kenneth Hoeve of Oakland. Also surviving is Mrs. Alice Griesen, of Holland, maternal grandmother.

The accident occurred at the intersection of 96th Ave. and Adams St., about two miles south of Zeeland when the two cars collided at a blind corner. The car driven by Martin Nienhuis, skidded into a deep ditch after the collision, throwing both John and Martin clear.

The Lamoreaux car flew into a field at the crossroads, rolling over three times before coming to rest against a light pole 147 feet from the point of impact.

The South Haven fire department poured so much water on the three fire-ravaged buildings in the center of this picture Thursday morning, that residents of the city Friday were using water for only "essential" needs. The fire department, using all four of its trucks, poured 18,000 gallons of water per minute on the fire at its peak. South Haven's City Engineer Max Norris asked residents today to use water sparingly until the supply was built up to the normal 1,500,000 gallons. This Sentinel photo was taken at 2 p.m. Thursday at which time the center building still was smoldering. The fire was first discovered at 7:20 a.m. Thursday and had by that time swept through the large single basement beneath the three stores. Sergeant Walter Burns, police fire marshal of the fifth district, said only $12,000 of the $100,000 in contents was covered by insurance.

Mrs. F. A. Palmer, 70 South Division St., discusses some improvements she feels could be made in Tulip Time with James H. Klomparsen, member of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce. The pair met over the coffee cups to talk about Mrs. Palmer's prize-winning suggestions, submitted in the hidden-name contest being sponsored by Holland merchants. The ninth weekly

Maroons Swamp Zeeland Cagers In Tournament

Holland Christian fought its way into the finals of the district tourney Thursday night by taking a convincing 54-34 decision over a game Zeeland club.

The Maroons took the contest from the Chix in workmanlike manner, methodically going about their business of racking up points. Never trailing in the contest, the Dutchmen jumped off to an early lead and continued to outscore Coach Joe Newell's five in every quarter.

It was the balanced scoring of the Hollanders and some fine rebound work by lanky Ken Knott, Ed Altena and Jim Kok which paved the way for the Holland victory. To top the scoring was diminutive Ben Bouwman who scored close in when he could and away when he couldn't drive in. He led all scorers with 17 markers followed by Altena with 14.

Zeeland was in the game for two and a half quarters with Bern Raterink and Ray Wagner bearing the brunt of the attack. Raterink is a rugged boy on the backboards and a key man in Zeeland's new double pivot offense.

Altena played one of the best games of his high school career, although he sat out most of the last half with four personals. Ken Mast also did a nice job subbing for Ralph Bouwman who garnered three personals in the first four minutes of the tilt. Although neither team lost anyone on fouls, both clubs were hampered with players nearing the ejection mark.

The Tulsamen started the game with a bang, taking two shots and scoring four points in the first 30 seconds. From then on, they maintained the lead, although the losers narrowed the count to 8-6 at one point—thanks to foul shots. The Chix made one basket in the first quarter, which ended with Christian on the lag end of a 12-7 count.

Christian really spurted in the second period to take a 23-9 lead with six minutes gone. Zeeland fought back and narrowed the count to 26-16 at the intermission.

There was no stopping the Hollanders at the start of the third quarter as they rolled to a 39-22 count midway in the period. For the remainder of the contest, both clubs played on virtually even terms. Christian held a 45-28 margin going into the final period.

Tuls cleared the bench in the last quarter in an effort to save as many of his boys as possible for Saturday's tough contest. The Dutch spurted to a 22 point margin at one time in the period. Play was slow and marred by fouls throughout the final four minutes.

Holland sunk 12 out of 20 foul attempts compared to Zeeland's 12 for 23 tries. A total of 21 fouls were called against the Dutch compared to Zeeland's 16.

Leading the Zeeland scoring was Wagner with 11, followed by Raterink with eight.

GRANDSTANDING...

By Russ McKee

This week's Sporting News, bible of sporting fans, printed no less than two pictures of George Zuverink of Holland, who is back working out with the Cleveland Indians in Tucson, Arizona.

Also Ed McAuley, Sporting News columnist, noted that Al Lopez, Cleveland pilot, made several encouraging remarks about Zuverink. Lopez, McAuley said, had been worried about a thin pitching staff and had taken up five rookies from the Cleveland farm system for work with the Tribe this year.

McAuley noted that Lopez is smiling these days around the Indians' Tucson teepee, happy with the rookie crop.

Charley Ruffing, Cleveland coach, said "I was surprised to learn that Zuverink ever lost a game in the Coast league. I don't know how anyone can hit his stuff." Zuverink pitched for the San Diego Padres on the coast last year, winning 20 while losing 14.

Roger Eggers, Holland forward, captured second place in the individual scoring department of the Southwestern conference this year, dropping a healthy 15.2 points per game. In the 10-game schedule, Eggers bagged 63 field goals and 26 free throws for 152 points. His 63 field goals were just one shy of the total bagged by Ron Jackson, Kalamazoo center who won the individual's race.

It's good to note that the Holland reserve squad, coached by Bob Connell, this year won a share of the reserve squad's title in the Southwestern conference. The Subs won nine and lost one in conference play this year. Muskegon is the co-champion reserve team, with none of the other four teams in the league being even close to the two leaders.

What this indicates concerning next year's conference battle is open to question, but the Holland squad, losing several of its regulars via the graduation route, should be encouraged by the hard-driving subs. Kalamazoo's reserve squad, incidentally, had a poor season, winning only three of the 10 games it played.
